

MAY 8 – 11, 2012
ANGOLA, INDIANA

A basic pin sheet usually includes the following with distances commonly measured in paces, or yards:

- The total depth of the green (the "43" in our example illustration). The distance (depth) of the hole from the front of the green (the "25" in the illustration, meaning that the pin is 3 yards (9 feet) deeper than the center of the green in this case)
- The distance of the hole (laterally) from the green's closest edge ("4" paces from the left edge of the green in the illustration)

Pin Sheet Example

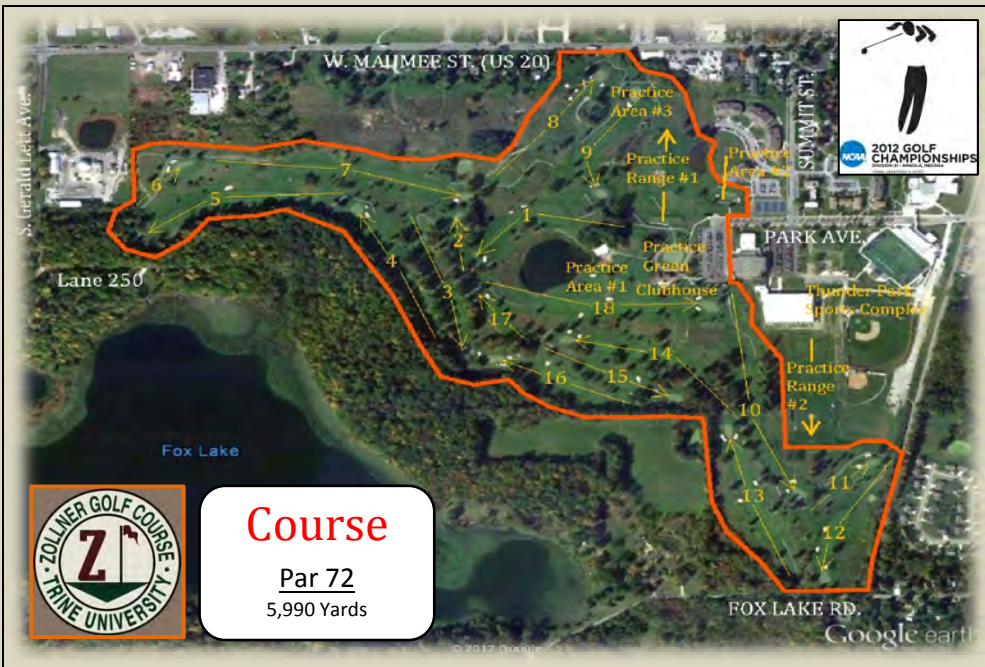

Once you know the depth of the pin placement into the green you can either add or subtract the appropriate number of paces (or yards) from the center of the green – depending on whether the cup is cut more toward the front or the back of the green – to get your yardage to the hole. In the example illustration, since the total depth of the green is 43 paces the center of the green is at 22 paces. So whatever yardage you arrive at based on the yardage markers, plus or minus any necessary pacing that you had to do to the location of your ball, the actual yardage to the hole would be 3 yards more than that.
